REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

For President:

BENJAMIN HARRISON,
OF INDIANA.

For Vice-President:
LEVI P. MORTON,
OF NEW YORK.

For Governor:

EDWIN C. BURLEIGH, OF BANGOR.

Iteration of a simple question has produced the "profoundest feelings of nausea" claimed by our contemporary, the Commercial, of stuff like the above: it has pointed to avoid an honest statement of fact must have had a most distressing effect upon its readers, who certainly cannot be highly educated at the humiliating cowardice displayed by the Democratic party organ.

The Mills bill proposes to remove the duty on lumber and subject the people of this State to "the gravest injustice" of free competition from Canada. This is the recognized policy of the party and every lumberman in the State, Republican or Democrat, knows that the adoption of such a policy would be disastrous to their interests. Now the Commercial must be either for or against the policy as there is no half way course. This being the fact we have repeatedly challenged it to announce upon which side of the lumber question it stands, but up to this time it has contented itself with such weak evasions as that quoted above. Now let it answer the question fairly or openly acknowledge that it is afraid to get down from the fence where it has been balancing for some weeks.

The Temperance Plank.

[Keystone Journal.]

Congressman Boutelle is justly entitled to the warm commendation which he is receiving from Republican journals in different sections of the country, for the vigor and success with which he pushed the temperance resolution through the National Convention at Chicago. Because of the obtuseness and singular obstinacy of members of the Committee on Resolutions of that body, an anti-slavery plank had been refused a place in the platform. The main member of the committee was sound on the question, and so were those of other States. But the desire to make the tariff the main issue in the pending campaign caused some to forget the importance and wise expediency of an endorsement of temperance principles.

This tactical blunder of the Committee was so obvious to the most thoughtful members of the convention, that it was in a state of mind to receive the resolution which Mr. Boutelle had the good sense to present at the right time. Its purpose being at that time misunderstood by many of the delegates, its introduction produced considerable of a hubbub. But with a firm attitude and a ringing voice, under circumstances when the House of Representatives usually appears at its best, he obtained the ear and sympathy of the convention. The scope and tenor of the resolution being fully understood, instead of encountering the opposition it did in committee, it was adopted with an emphasis of enthusiasm not to be misunderstood, and was warmly received by the friends of sobriety and good order throughout the country.

I am directed by the Committee on Resolutions to present to you this resolution and ask your approval of the same.

Resolved, That the convention hereby endorses and recommends the early passage of the bill for the protection of the revenue, with a view to the House of Representatives.

The resolution was unanimously adopted with "great enthusiasm" and is a square endorsement of the Mills bill, the Commercial and all. Furthermore the Democratic convention at Chicago gave its hearty approval to the Mills bill, without any modification whatever, so that Mr. Boutelle, as well as Cleveland and Thurman, must stand or fall on this free trade platform, which no amount of subterfuge can disguise. The man who goes to the polls in September and votes for Mr. Boutelle must necessarily at the same time give his endorsement to the free trade Mills bill, which even the Commercial has said is "a gratuitous injury to our people." This being the fact the logical conclusion for the voter is to give his support to Mr. Burleigh, who stands upon a platform heartily in accord with the system of protection to American labor and who is himself a staunch protectionist.

Doing Their Own Thinking.

The Commercial, after insulting the workingmen employed at Parker & Peake's factory makes an insulting effort to drown, in its of characteristic weak attempts to change its position we find the following:

"The moment a workingman begins to think for himself," says this Wiley, "that moment he gains the enmity of the Democratic organ because intelligent political action is the last thing the Democratic party desires." The impudence of this Wiley is refreshing.

We said just that and meant it all. The campaign of 1884 was, so far as the Republicans were concerned, contested largely on the protective issue. That is a question to which the workingmen are directly interested, and although the Democrats tried in the large manufacturing centres to hide their antagonism to a protective tariff, thousands of workingmen, who had heretofore acted with the Democracy, served old party ties and voted for the Republican nominees, who stood upon a platform pledging them to protection. At that time the great body of workingmen, who, as a result of a careful investigation of the question in all its bearings, came to a realizing sense that it was the height of folly for them to longer identify themselves with a free trade party, was made the object of the most bitter abuse by the Democratic press. The wage earners were not to be frightened, however, but insist on doing their own thinking, just as they are doing this year. The day raising at Parker & Peake's factory a few nights since, as well the same interesting ceremony to place at Mr. J. E. Booth's factory this week, are the direct outgrowth of this more advanced position taken by the workingmen all over the country. They have studied the Democratic policy for themselves and find that it is dangerous to their future prosperity, that it would subject them to competition with the underpaid and underfed foreign labor, hence they propose to array themselves openly under the banner of Protection. This is the lesson to be deduced from the voluntary action of the workingmen in this city in securing flags of their own, and no amount of lying and sneering allusions about forced contributions on the part of the Commercial will change the situation in the least.

Still on the Fence.

It always begins by repeating the paragraph which serves as its text and it is as far as a large majority of its readers ever get. The stereotyped drift that follows is regard to the Commercial and the number question has become so exceedingly stale as to excite very pronounced feelings of weariness and contempt. It seems odd and ridiculous that it should be the general opinion that "the Wiley has become a monomaniac on the question and has entirely lost the smell of oil that it ever did possess. His friends have our sympathy."

Conscientious

Demands prompt treatment. The results of neglect may be serious. Avoid all harsh and drastic purgatives, the tendency of which is to weaken the bowels. The best remedy is Ayer's Pills. Being purgative, their action is prompt and their effect always decided. They are an admirable Liver and After-dinner pill, and every where endorsed by the profession.

Ayer's Pills are highly and universally spoken of by the people about here. I make daily use of them in my practice. — Dr. E. Fowler, Bridgeport, Conn.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a cathartic for myself and family." — J. H. Head, Leitchfield, Pa.

"For several years Ayer's Pills have been used in my family. We find them an for constipation and indigestion, and are never without them in the house." — Moses Greener, Lowell, Mass.

If I have used Ayer's Pills for liver troubles and indigestion, during many years, I have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." — J. Smith, U. S. N. Y.

"I suffered from constipation which assumed such an obstinate form that I resorted to what was a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills effected a complete cure." — Dr. Burke, Saugus, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years and consider them an invaluable remedy for liver troubles, and better remedy for liver troubles, and have always found them a prompt remedy for dyspepsia." — James Quinn, 90 Main Street, Hartford, Conn.

"Having been troubled with constipation and indigestion, I have persons of sedentary habits, I have tried Ayer's Pills, hoping for relief. I am glad to say that they have served me well, and I have no doubt that they will serve me well when I arrive at this conclusion only after a faithful trial of their merits." — Samuel T. Jones, Oak St., Boston, Mass.
